Prayers for Healing

As I've mentioned many times, Pope Benedict XVI wrote, "Seen at a sufficiently deep level, healing is the entire content of redemption." Healing can come in many different ways. Often, it happens as we reflect upon the Lord's work in our lives and those of others we know and love. When I get back, we will have our bi-monthly "Healing Encounter" (more about that below) on Saturday, August 10th. Reflecting during my time away, and the way the Lord has worked, this quote came to mind. I hope it will encourage you. It centers on God's desire to heal. He will do so if we can let Him help us see our past from the aspect of Love. Of Eternity.

. . . *When we see our past in the light of the Holy Spirit, with the eyes of God, it is created anew. What we pray for in the Psalms comes true: "Make us glad as many days as you have afflicted us, and as many years as we have seen evil" (Ps 90:15). We receive a completely new past. The best moment for this transformation of our past is, of course, at the Eucharist. Do we really mean it when we say: "Say but the word and I shall be healed?" He comes to us to heal all wounds, to transform all sorrow into joy. Do we give him the opportunity to heal us? Do we show him our wounds? We pray: "In your wounds you hide me." "By his wounds you have been healed", we read in the first letter of Peter (2:24). The more we come in contact with these wounds, the more all of our wounds heal. In the Eucharist, the Lord comes to us wounded and sacrificed. That is the right moment to pray: "Jesus, heal these wounds." As soon as you show him your wounds and expose yourself to his healing power, the healing process begins, one that is not like ordinary healing. It is not a question of something old that has caused you much pain and finally ceases to torment you. The healing goes back into time and transforms the very moment when you were hurt into a moment of grace. The very wound that was the cause of so much suffering is transformed into a blessing, and all the bitterness it caused is changed into meaningful and fruitful suffering. When Israel could not drink the water in Marah because of its bitterness, Moses called out to the Lord: ". . . he cried to the Lord; and the Lord showed him a tree, and he threw it into the water, and the water became sweet" (Ex 15:23-25). The wood that we throw into the bitter water is the word "Amen": it is good as it is, and it was good even then, because you, O God, were there. God was there. That is the very first and most important thing that our reading of the Scriptures can teach us: God is there in everything that happens. In the Bible we are dealing with the first cause, not the second. The most dramatic event in Joseph's life, when his brothers sold him, was God's greatest grace. "God sent me before you", he says to his brothers who came to Egypt to buy grain, "to preserve for you a remnant on earth, and to keep alive for you many survivors. So it was not you who sent me here, but God" (Gen 45:7-8). "You meant evil against me; but God meant it for good, to bring it about that many people should be kept alive, as they are today" (Gen 50:20). (Stinissen, Fr. Wilfrid. Into Your Hands Father: Abandoning Ourselves to the God Who Loves Us (pp. 40-42).)*

Offering Masses for Particular Intentions

One of the great gifts that we can give to those who die is to have Mass said for the repose of their soul. Many of you have Masses said/prayed for your loved ones who have passed, and that is a wonderful traditional practice. Each weekend, one of the official intentions for the Mass is "for the people," but the other Masses have particular intentions for the living and/or for the dead. You can arrange for a Mass to be said for yourself or someone who is living or has died. All it takes is contacting the parish office and paying (unless you are unable to do so) the Mass stipend amount of $10. If you don't have the money, let us know, and we will not charge you for it. Sarah Michaels keeps track of these Mass intentions and publishes them in the bulletin. We have openings and would love for you to be able to have Masses said for those you love, either those who have died or those who are living. Contact Sarah at the office for more information or to have Masses set for your intentions. Thank you!

Healing Encounter at Lansing Catholic's Chapel

Next Saturday evening, August 10, we will have our bi-monthly Healing Encounter, which is a time of praise, adoration, and prayer for healing. It includes a testimony, brief reflection, and opportunity for individual prayer ministry and confession. It begins at 7:00 p.m. and will conclude around 8:30 or so. Join us if you're able!

Beauty of Creation

I'm writing this article from Copper Harbor. My brother Dave, his wife Nancy, and their daughter Abby are here, and my brother Jim and his wife Kara and some of their children will arrive today. My youngest brother Dan will arrive on Sunday. It's been a great time of rest and renewal amidst this beauty. This morning, we got up early to look at Jupiter, the moon, Mars and Aldebaran just before dawn through a telescope. It was a glorious way to begin this day. We will be off for Mass shortly at "Our Lady of the Pines" chapel in the city. As I've mentioned over the past few weeks, I hope that you and those you love have had a chance to "recharge" and become renewed or at least get some rest this summer. As for me and my family, we are enjoying fellowship in the context of this beautiful place. Thanks be to God. Be assured of my prayers for you and your intentions while I am away.

With gratitude for all God's gifts,

Father Steve
